Miss Eula Jones, of Buck Grove, visited Miss Mattie and Mabel Shacklett last week.

Miss Ella Haynes spent several days last week with her aunt, Miss Will Coleman, at Sulphur Springs.

Rob. Ashcraft and family visited Sunday Hill neighborhood Saturday and Sunday. The route my letter took last week was as crooked as the road the children of Israel traveled. It was clear around the circuit. I looked for it to get right in Sirocco seldom passes 'em by.

The fleeting moments passed away pleasantly at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, the evening of the 29th. When a number of neighbors and friends gathered in, in honor of Miss Maud Jones, Mrs. Brown's niece, of Gentryville, Ind., who after spending a week in the hotel, returned home the 29th, accompanied by her cousin, Miss Clara Brown.

The cut worm cuth of the corn at the top of the ground and leaveth the roots to send forth fresh blades.

The black bird followed the plow and catch that cut worms he findeth. When he findeth not the cut worm, he pulch up a stock of corn and eateth the grain thereon. So the bird's offense is greater than that of the worm.

Base-ball is getting to be the rage in this county again. The Fountain Field "Tigers" made the Brandenburg "Eagles" bite the dust again at Brandenburg the 29th ult. If they ever get another pull at the Eagles, they'll pick the very pin-feathers "out" 'em. The Ekron boys are going to stand the Tigers a contest at Brandenburg the 23 Sunday afternoon. The supposition with the Tigers is, if they can induce the Eagles to stand by and look on and see a game played once, they'll muster up courage to play the Tigers again some time, when the latter have nothing else to do, and are wanting a little exercise.

I wonder what was the matter with George Worland Sunday after the ball was over? He was the saddest looking man I ever saw when I passed him on his way down town. I had a notion once to ask him if his wife was dead, but remembered that he was a single man, and thought perhaps his girl had gone back on him, and he wouldn't care to be interviewed on that subject. When his friends will stand to him for a change of scene, O yes, I remember now, George was Captain of the Eagles and he was sorry for the loss of the plights he was in. You know a pickt bird always tries to hide his head, anyhow. Wonder if he wasn't afraid that I would write up his name, brighten up I won't say anything more about it if you'll stop the cigars when I come to town. O yes, I'm going to make Captain Edmunds set 'em up too, see what I'll do. I think Will Hynes ought to set 'em up. I've said a heap about him and he never has thanked me for it. Well, I'll let him off if he won't bounce me any more.

Isn't it astonishing to think how many institutions will, like mushrooms, spring up to maturity in a single day as it we, and are some of their nearest neighbors deign to smile on them, have "shot their wad" and gone the way of all the earth.

The base-ball ground adjoined County Attorney Hamilton's suburban property, where four fine laurels stand. The Fountain Field Tigers. The aforesaid Hamilton came out to where the boys were playing, with the intention of converting himself into a back-slap to stray balls from invading his garden spot, but his courage failed him. Several balls circled around his head with threatening velocity, he hid himself off to safer fields.

It was right amusing to watch the sorrowful expression of Tom's face when ever a foul ball came flying around and make a drive for that truck-patch. Tom has a great big sympathetic heart and he can't bear to see the small boy tearing his pantaloons while getting over the wire fence after stray balls. While watching the interesting game, while waiting the fleeting moments with our quondam friend, Fannie Rhodes and others. For Tom had a very pleasant talk over old times with me, used to niddle together, but Fon seemed desirous of dwelling on the things of the present. That girl at Clarksville, who thought to be completely wrapped up in his mind. The genial managing Editor of the Messenger came out and asked me if Fon was talking about his girl. I told him that I couldn't get Fon to talk about anything else. He said if I did, I was the only one that he had met lately that could get anything else out of him. The Editor said that I had seen him, and was satisfied that Fon had not exaggerated. He took one long, lingering look at me, and I actually believe that the man was ruminating in his mind: "Amen, the biggest liar in town couldn't beat you." He heave a sigh, I suppose for the sake of depraved humanity, and passed on Con-Zooker.

Having sold Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for the past seventeen years, and knowing its reliability, he procured a 25 cent bottle, two doses of which completely cured him. The excitement and change of water and diet incident to traveling often procure a diarrhoea. Every one should procure a bottle of this Remedy before leaving home. For sale by A. R. Kentucky Asphalt. The asphalt mines over at Garfield are doing steady work just now. They are working about 30 men in the mines and are shipping from four to six cars daily. Twelve teams are employed in hauling the mineral to the cars and these make $4.00 a day. The men in the mine make from $1.10 to $1.50 a day. This is putting a considerable amount of money into circulation at that neighborhood, and the people of that locality feel good and prosperous times are right on them.

JOHN ROBINSON'S SHOW. The Amusement Golconda of the Period.

Nearly seventy years of continuous operation has characterized the career of the John Robinson show, which this season is reaching the proud culmination of its triumphs. No other show in existence can display so continuous and complete a record. From the cold waters of the Kennebec to the shores of the Pacific, from the northern boundaries of civilization to the southern limits of the continent, for more than one generation has the name of John Robinson been a household word, and the coming of the always unexceptionable exhibition enterprise that bear his name is eagerly greeted with a hearty welcome. From the genesis of the show until its present colossal perfection, there has not been a solitary season in which it has not led its fellows in the multiplicity and general excellence of its attractions, and now it towers above and dwarfs all contemporaneous tented exhibitions into comparative insignificance, and this season it presents such an opulence of sterling and meritorious attractions as to truly entitle it to be designated as a vast Amusement Golconda, whose wondrous wealth of entertainment is unlimited and immeasurable. It is merely a work of supererogation to say that its circus has always been the best and biggest always in the van, always prolific in leading and sensational features, and always fully equipped with the finest sort of horses and the most skillful and finished larch riders, gymnasts and acrobats in the profession; that its large, well-ordered and well-selected menagerie contains living, vigorous specimens of that is strange, rare and curious within the range of natural history, and that his royal Roman hippodrome is a vivid and realistic reproduction of that of the days of imperial Rome.

It may be said, however, that these always prominent and desirable attractions have been added, for the current season, a feature so stupendous and magnificent, so overpowering in unprecedented grandeur and impressiveness, and so enormous in the expense necessary to its production, that the features mentioned, grand and multifarious as they are, can at best play a secondary part. The grand biblical, historical, scenicographic, fiery, teraphichron and pantomimic spectacle of "Solomon, His Temple, and Queen of Sheba" is thus alluded to; a transcendently impressive and eminently novel and mid-elevating paganoitic and scenic production from the fertile brain of Mr. John Rieg, the projector and creator of "Rome Under Nero," "The Fall of Babylon," "Montezuma," and "Solomon in Egypt," noted spectacles which have been annually produced under the auspices of the Order of Cincinnati, and which have become famous throughout the length and breadth of the land. To claim that "Solomon, His Temple, and the Queen of Sheba" is the masterpiece of this brilliant artist is not transcending the limits of veracity. There is not a sensational nor lascivious scene, set or thought in the spectacle, and everything in the entire presentation is holy, chaste and pure. The limits of a newspaper notice prevent mention in detail of the manifold characteristics and excellencies of this gorgeous and imposing spectacle, but the reader will find adequate description in the bills, circulars and advertisements disseminated broadcast by the management.

The John Robinson show will exhibit at Cloverport Wednesday, June 13.

HELPLESS INVALID.

"About 18 months or two years ago my wife's health gave way, and she grew steadily worse. She could not retain scarcely anything she ate and the disease finally assumed the worst form of

DYSPEPSIA AND CHRONIC DIARRHŒA.

And she became a helpless invalid at the age of 18. I had her under the treatment of a good physician, but his efforts to restore her gave me no avail. So, after matters had continued thus for 8 or 10 months, and my wife had given up to die, I took the case in my own hands and purchased a bottle of Dr. King's ROYAL GERMETUER, began giving it to her in water hot as she could drink it, before and after each meal, using a mild purgative occasionally on retiring at night.

Suffice it to say in less than a week there was

A WONDERFUL CHANGE. So could eat a little of anything she desired, and today is a well, vigorous woman. She now gets possibly 4 or 6 bottles. In my opinion GERMETUER HAS NO EQUAL."

The brick works were about to close down this week for the last of coal, but recent dispatches conveyed the false news that neither Deandfield or Falcon mines would be effected by the strike, and that the coal would keep coming.

William F. Pool, of McDaniels, the county, was one of the lucky guests in the distribution of prizes by the Courier-Journal. They were based on the amount of rain fall for the month of May. Mr. Pool was one of 33 guests who divided $200 among them, giving each $3.75.

Getting Well.
 Mr. Charles Liden and little son, Willie, the unfortunate who had such a narrow escape in the frightful runaway, mentioned last week, are both recovering. The little boy, who was dragged out of the wreck for a quarter of a mile over the rough streets, is so much improved that he is able to go out on the streets though he carries one arm in a sling and the other is still bandaged.

The fish was frightfully torn on both hands and fore arms as he rubbed over the rough gravel and stones. It is interesting to hear him say that he thought he had and the efforts he made to save himself, while he was being dashed, as everybody thought, to certain death.

Mr. Liden had three ribs broken in his left side when he was knocked down and run over by the horse, as he was trying to save his boy, and his recovery is much slower than he expects.

At one time last week it was thought that he could not recover, but we are pleased to say that he is now able to sit up in bed, and his release is assured, he will soon be out again.

This California steamer is the headquarters for the celebrated Monarch whiskeys for the Pacific Slope section. While he was en route he was promoted to this important position, we also congratulate the Monarch on their securing so good and competent a man for the place.

Thanks They Were Poisoned.
 Early in last week Mr. Israel Holder had a fine Jersey better to lay down and sell for $500. He was not only not content for the sale, but he had no suspicion of poison. A few days after, while he was eating his fine gray mare, he noticed her acting queerly. He turned her into his stable, and in fifteen minutes she was dead. He now accuses her of their death by thinking that somebody "had it in for him" and getting revenge by the cowardly act of poisoning his stock.

The same clubs will cross bats at Cloverport today, and the game promises to be a better one. The grounds are situated at the west end of Wall street. Seats have been prepared for the ladies and the fair sex are especially invited to come out and witness the game.

A general Cloverport people went to Cannell Hall Sunday to witness a game of ball between the Cannell club and an amateur team from Louisville, and came back thoroughly disgusted with the proceedings.

The Cannell club was about to get beat and they had to resort to their accustomed scheme of bull-dozing and busting up the game with a row.

The laws so requiring it, the Council proceeded to elect a Board of Health, whose duty is to see that the city is kept in proper sanitary condition, and act in accord with the State Board of Health.

DECORATION.

her that they sacrificed, are ever willing to sacrifice, that which is most dear to all men in behalf of the cause they thought was right. And today while I would not disparage the decorating of graves with flowers—wreaths and garlands—yet I would not detract from the fact that many of the men who died in the great battles of the war, too many to count, had no flowers to place on their graves. Yet the thought would have us believe by this occasion is to go as long as there is a desire to pay respect to our heroes slain—so long as we drop a flower or shed a tear on the turf where they lie, then so long as we sing praises to their names to that extent we know their names will live in the hearts of the people, our fellow citizens a love and profound respect for their pure patriotism in their fellow men. The observance of decoration day is in keeping with the custom of nearly all nations. In the olden times, among the old Greeks, Romans and Romans, the dead soldiers who had died in their country's cause were always buried secretly in memory. At the siege of ancient Troy by the Greeks, Hector, who commanded the Trojan forces, was slain the whole city mourned his death, not only this they buried him with all the pomp that could be displayed.

Such honors illian to her hero paid and peaceful sleep the mighty Hector's shade. There is a point to be learned in the treatment of the Romans of their soldiers. In the earlier history of Rome the soldiers were composed of Roman citizens, it was considered an honor to be a Roman soldier. Consequently the Roman soldiers both living and dead were revered by the Roman people. But in the days of the Empire the Roman army were filled up with foreigners who were hired to fight. From that time the Roman legions began to lose their character. The Roman citizens had become weak and effeminate and could no longer make good soldiers. While the hired troops were not patriotic from this cause Rome could not withstand the repeated attacks of the Germanic tribes, and Rome of the fell. It has been the fortune of the U. S. to have her army composed of the citizens of the land, this makes them more patriotic while they lived and makes them better loved while dead.

The following committees ably assisted in making the ceremonies of the day perfect and pleasant:

Gravestone Inspectors.—Nancy Tait, commander, Letitia Bricker, Noll Hendrick and Mary Smith.

Flower Gatherers.—Mary Harris, commander, Mattie Bricker, Sallie Perkins, Ida Pate.

Table Inspectors.—Nancy Pate, commander, Melissa Perkins, Mrs. Nelson Jolly, Margaret Bricker, Mrs. Martha Hendrick, Mrs. W. C. Tait, Mrs. Mary Patterson, Ida Bricker.

Guards.—Jerry Perkins, commander, Dud Baum, Wm. Pate, Ed. Pate, James Mattingly.

J. N. Tait was officer of the day.

A committee was also appointed to visit the Bricker grave yard and decorate the grave of Geo. Compton, son of Henry Compton, another soldier.

The Tait neighborhood is a portion of Breckenridge county that has an interesting history. In 1861, when the great rebellion was in its infancy, both sides were in this neighborhood recruiting troops to help fight the battles of the cause they thought was right, and many men of the neighborhood found either the blue or the gray and went to the front. In 1862 the Hon. J. D. Wilson was recruiting for the federal cause in this neighborhood, and Miss Annie E. Tait, now Mrs. Wm. Tait, was the first person to enlist. Through her enthusiasm and influence and his efforts about thirty men were obtained, and Mr. Wilson took them to Hartford, Conn. In 1863, when the war was in its third year, Mr. J. D. Wilson was so unfortunate as to have them stolen from him and enlisted in the 3rd Kentucky.

TOBINSPOUT.

A nice rise in the river. Crops in a good condition. Strawberries are all gone.

Cart Ryan's wife and baby are both sick and the child is not expected to live.

Misses Ola Clark, Agnes Gordon, Minnie Lynch and Edna Ried, who have been visiting here from Paducah, returned home last Sunday.

Wm. Artman, who murdered his wife and child, was tried in the Circuit Court last week. A plea of insanity was brought in by the defendant's counsel which was denied by the state. After all the witnesses for the defence were heard, Artman himself was put on the stand on Friday at 3:30 o'clock and said "I'll court adjourned, (one hour and a half later.) Next morning he took the stand for an hour and a half, making three hours that he continued in making his confession. He entered into the most minute details of the crime, and made a full confession, but says he could not remember when the deed was done, nor just how it was done. He seems to think that tampering with spiritualism was the cause of the murder. The case was given to the jury at 4 o'clock Saturday evening. The jury was then led by the bailiff to a room on the lower floor where they remained one hour and a half and then returned with the verdict "Guilty of murder in the first degree," with imprisonment for life. While the jury was out the court room was crowded with anxious hearts to hear the result. When the verdict was read by the clerk there could be no change seen in the countenance of the prisoner, and being asked by Judge Goff to arise, he got up apparently without any excitement and heard the sentence pronounced. Being asked by the Judge what he had to say, he said "I will accept the decision of the court, I promised to do so, and will."

We sympathize with the boys who ventured out in the cold rain Sunday as the parlor stoves have all been taken down.

The croquet party at Mr. Tom Bager's Sunday proved a success. Some sixty old attended and surely there was never an evening spent more enjoyably than Sunday.

Mr. Emmett Elder was seen on the flats Sunday inquiring for cane seed but I think there must be some other attraction for Emmett, as he never called for the seed.

Thirty-two children made their first Holy Communion at first Island Sunday. They looked very happy.

The girls were dressed in snow white covered with long white veils and beautiful wreaths on their heads.

I was just reading George Washington Randolph's rhymes concerning the Republican county candidates, and I was much amused. The verses suggest he is a good Democrat and it seems to be a pity that he is a horse thief. It is sad indeed that horse thieves turn out that way.
